GREATER TORONTO AIRPORTS AUTHORITY

ONLY TWO WEEKS INTO 2008 AND GTAA WELCOMES ONE MILLIONTH PASSENGER

January 14, 2008

TORONTO—Only two weeks into 2008 and the Greater Toronto Airports Authority (GTA A) welcomed Toronto Pearson's one millionth passenger.

Dr. Weiping Huang arrived on Air Canada flight 032 from Beijing at 2:45 this afternoon in Terminal 1. "We are very excited to mark the occasion of one million passengers so early in the year," said Howard Bohan, Vice President, Operations and Customer Experience. "This shows just how busy Toronto Pearson is, the importance of the Airport to keep this Region's economy moving, and reinforces the tremendous value of having new and efficient facilities to deal with this incredible demand."

A great deal of credit and thanks must be extended to employees from the GTA A, airlines, and various agencies that work hard to ensure the airport is run as smoothly as possible.

As the one millionth passenger of the year, Dr. Huang was given one free year's valet parking service at the Airport as well as 10 complimentary parking day passes.

The GTA A is the non-share, not-for-profit company that operates Toronto Pearson. All revenue generated by the GTA A is reinvested back into the airport. In 2006, 31 million passengers travelled through Toronto Pearson. Preliminary passenger numbers for 2007 will be available very shortly. From Toronto, passengers can reach 76 same-plane international destinations, 28 non-stop Canadian destinations and 49 non-stop destinations in the United States.
